

About the author

Richard M Phelan

Certified Personologist

by the

The International Centre of Personology (USA)

The Personology Foundation of the Pacific (USA)

I am a certified personologist, born in the UK and have been researching and studying people as a hobby for many years – since I was in my teens, I am now 60 years of age (2012).

In the course of my life, I have also studied people in mind-control cults and how the people are manipulated. Even an honest-hearted person with a good education and sound thinking, can easily be pulled into such cults. I also noticed that various types of people have certain traits and found that I became very good at quickly drawing the right conclusions, before they open their mouths, as to what they would be like and the reception I would get when approaching them. I tried this out on thousands of people over the years and became what might be best called "a good judge of character".

Now, after putting all these things together and discovering personology and facial trait reading, I have found this to be extremely accurate. I have been trained under two of the best known teachers in the USA – Naomi Tickle and Dr Paul B Elsner PsD USA. Naomi has been a professional personologist adviser for over 20 years and is a world-renowned expert in face language. She set up the "International Centre of Personology" in San Francisco and is a member of the International Coach Federation. Dr Elsner was a certified personologist and genetic analyst for 60 years under "The Personology Foundation of the Pacific" USA.

Naomi studied Robert Whiteside's work by introduction to his research via his nephew, Bill Whiteside. Robert was a pioneer founder of personology and associate of judge Edward Vincent Jones (USA). Much of the work that we see today was validated by Robert Whiteside who, with his wife Elizabeth, carried out most of the profile research and statistical data. This information is dealt with in Bill Whiteside's book "Nature's Message", for those interested to know more details about the work. Dr Elsner was part of a team involved with the lab assignments research at San Quentin prison and the Air Force recruitment program (USA) to establish the modern foundation and accuracy of personology. Dr Elsner also did work at mental institutions and asylums, working with patients in researching behavioural and demeanour traits.

I am a graduate student of both the International Centre of Personology USA and The Personology Foundation of the Pacific. I use the exact methods pioneered by the late Judge Edward V Jones, the original investigator of genetic traits, facial and head physical features. The measurements are taken using the same instruments Robert Whiteside and Edward V Jones designed as they are simple but effective.

Even though some 70 years later, I have found nothing that has been able to match the system for accuracy and I have investigated and talked to a lot of people over the years.

I hope the constructive advice and suggestions will help many find peace of mind and better communication so that when we look at each other, we only see the true person for the best, their great gifts and potential and encourage everyone to give all their creative abilities to benefit all. Every single person on the planet has amazing gifts and potential, no matter who they are. They have incredible abilities they may not realise they even possess or have inherited. This goes from the professional to the vagrant sleeping on the street. The gifts are there; they just need help to bring out the best out in themselves. Knowing who you are will open a door to new horizons, goals and adventures. You are unique in the universe; no one is like you!

Discover yourself and your potential and the world will be full of sunshine: faces will never look the same from this day forward. One last thing to remember is that a diamond never comes out of the ground cut and sparkling, it is rough, uncut and looks nothing like a diamond. But put into the hands of a skilled diamond cutter, after much painstaking work, the beauty is revealed. People too are like this. Some have amazing traits but they just haven't been directed onto the right path. With a conscious effort, you will see people who were totally out of control become the most incredible individuals you could ever imagine. Offenders and criminals have been helped to become successful in business, financially independent, leaving a life of bitterness behind and walking a path in life which is now meaningful, happy, positive and constructive.

Every single person has traits that are gifts; it is just knowing which ones we have been blessed with and inherited from our family, be it our parents, grandparents or even great grandparents. As they say, every man can become a carpenter but it takes one man six months and another 20 years. One man has a natural gift while the other finds it a real challenge. If you know your gifts, this will save you endless time-wasting, pursuing something you will know could be extremely difficult, when the time could be dedicated to doing something you have a gift for.

We all have the tools and, as stated in the beginning of this book, it's not up to the tools or the wood, but up to the carpenter on what he decides to do with them. Whatever your traits are, you can become a wonderful person; you have amazing gifts. True freedom starts with good education.

My very best wishes and success to all readers.

Richard M Phelan
Certified Personologist

www.facereading.tv

The Face Never Lies!